Biography

John Stuart Fishback seeks to positively impact people's daily lives through the practice of Landscape Architecture in the public realm. He approaches practice with a goal of public service, inspired by the belief that public space, as one of our greatest shared resources, has the incredible power to unite its inhabitants, build a sense of community, and contribute to people's physical and emotional well-being. With extensive experience in technical detailing, documentation, and construction, Mr. Fishback contributes to Reed Hilderbrand's diverse range of commissions as the firm's lead quality control advisor. He also contributes to the firm as a Project Manager, with a focus on complex, urban projects. John Stuart Fishback is a licensed Landscape Architect in Massachusetts and California, who earned a Masters Degree in Landscape Architecture from California State Polytechnic University and a Bachelor of Arts Degree in Visual Communications from Loyola University of Chicago.
